More detailed exam results of the written and dictation portion is available at South Coast College.

The State examination consists of 3 parts: Academic (English and professional –law and medical), and dictation. These 2 academic tests and the dictation test is administered at different times and dates. The Licensure Passage is based on the first time students sat for those 2 academic tests and the dictation. Since the Dictation part of exam is the last test, the date in the First Available Exam Date column is the dictation exam date. The Date Exam Results Announced column may be an approximate date because the results are obtained from students.

In terms of actual numbers, from 2009 to 2016, South Coast College produced 142 licensed court reporters in contrast to 12 produced by a similar size program at a local community college.
